The hatchet is buried.

We put the X ray on the Republic and the Democracy. Yea the X ray where it did the balance.

The majority rules; the will of the people is supreme. — Pantagraph. Excellent democratic doctrine. Your boss, Mark Hanna, says: "The people be damned."

On thirty-five officers voted for in Madison on Tuesday of last week, the Republicans got only eight—two Magistrates, two Constables, Mayor and three Councilmen.

A man named McCreary was defeated for Marshal of Frankfort. He was a Republican. Moral: Don't go under the log cabin. This also applies to Mr. Martin, of Woodford.

BENJAMIN PERRY, Democrat, defeated W. L. Yerkes for Mayor of Paris by 15 majority. Yerkes is a brother of Collector Yerkes, who made a speech in Paris in his brother's behalf.

By voting for those men under the log cabin, the sound money Democratic friends who seem to have had such an aversion for free silverism and other issues, voted for Bryanism. — Pantagraph.

Evidently these gentlemen thought, of two evils Bryanism is the lesser.

The Democrats are in better shape for thanksgiving than the Republicans.

Cotton was lower on Friday, 1897, than during any other time, except 1894, in fifty years.

The official returns gives the Democrats another member of the Legislature from Louisville, Letterman winning by three votes over Ogden.

A great tidal wave of prosperity struck the country on Nov. 2. The Republicans can't see it that way—but the majority of the people do.

From latest returns it seems that Hon. Marcus A. Hanna will secure himself as United Senator from Ohio. — Pantagraph.

Do you know that?

Dr. HUNTER goes to Guatemala, Dr. Deboe to Washington, and Turt Burnan to Frankfort. Meanwhile Republicanism in Kentucky goes to sleep that knows no waking!

Tex thousand of the enrolled petition signers whose flattering mandate to place Hindman's name on the ballot for Clerk of the Court of Appeals was heralded abroad, did not vote for him.

JOHN THORPE telephoned from Berea early in the day: "The Democratic news is too good to be told." That put Richmond in a flurry and when the result was announced John Thorpe's prediction was true.

They beat us in the county, but the city of Richmond has been redeemed. Thanks, for this much, — Pantagraph.

Let the redemmers get to work before their Salvation Oil runs out.

The Republican party can blame nobody for their defeat except themselves. Two years of bitter and relentless faction fighting could not produce disaster. They fell into a ditch which they themselves dug.

REPUBLICAN principles were not defeated in this fight because they were not assailed. — John L. Bosley in Paris Letter.

Lack of principles, Bosley, lack of principles, was what defeated the old boffer.

If Kentucky and New York had gone Democratic in 1896 Bryan would have been elected President. Likewise Kentucky would have gone Democratic had the Dispatch been issued at the corner of 4th and Green, Louisville, Ky.

McKINLEY says he is well pleased with the result of the election, which means he is easily pleased or else he believes it rid him of Mark Hanna's influence. If the voters tickle him that way again he will laugh himself to death.

The result was brought about by use of money and by working up race prejudice. And the woodcock fell over as dead as a Lutetian sausage. Race prejudice! In other words, — but why add to the agony.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: "After these elections no one can deny that the Democratic party is for the Chicago platform, and it is useless for any one who pretends to be a Democrat to countenance an organization working in opposition to the Chicago platform."

HINDMAN did not carry a single precinct in Adair, his home county, which gave him a total of only 61 out of a total of 2,700 votes. Of the 13 precincts four gave him one vote each, and two gave him none. And this is fame! The county, always Republican, went Democratic this year.

SINCE ever thing went Democratic last week the London Times says: "The outlook is not very cheering either for the United States or for those having business or political dealings with that country."

We don't vote to please other countries every year, like we did in '96. Besides, you are not so very warm.

It required two days for Mr. Waterston to recover his power of speech and to dig himself out of the debris under which the National Democracy was buried but he writes from the rear of the procession in language that makes the news of his old friends and former associates glad to tell his followers that they are "completely annihilated." His article is reprinted in full on our outside pages, together with the hot response of the Dispatch.

The Constitutional Amendment was defeated.

The turnpike issue issue carried—provided it required only two thirds of the total vote cast on that proposition.

NEURO voter after the election. — "Can't you do nothing?" Late Republican Candidates. — "Go to hell!"

A. J. CARROLL, J. C. SINE and E. H. HARTLEY, who comprise the committee for the Democrats, have concluded they cannot manage a campaign worth a d—

Pool Hindman once, highly respected by the Democracy of Kentucky now as in Madison, it is not to be wondered at that the people wish their affairs attended to by their own party. — None but Democrats on guard! is a good motto.

If Bryanism has gained ground at no important point, we may record with good heart another major victory. — N. Y. Sun, day before the election.

As Bryanism triumphed at several important points we record a national victory anyhow.

In a county where three-fourths of its taxes are paid by the Democrats, as in Madison, it is not to be wondered at that the people wish their affairs attended to by their own party. — None but Democrats on guard! is a good motto.

If one wishes to know the true estimate of the leaders of the Republican party, let them see the result of the election. Some of the best of them have dared to act with the Democrats, just get in their neighborhood and hear them say "damn treacherous nigger!"

The Mexicans missed the greatest opportunity of their lives when William Jennings didn't visit them. — From the Pantagraph's syndicate editorials.

Mexico might have profited by his visit, as did Democracy in Kentucky, which triumphed wherever the afore-said William Jennings spoke.

With three districts in doubt, the next Legislature will be composed of 100 silver men and 35 Republicans. Two of the doubtful districts have probably elected silver men. Thus said the Courier Journal. If the above is correct there will be 102 Democrats and 36 Republicans in the next Legislature.

The Republicans are shifting the responsibility of the result of the election. Some lay it on Deboe, or Hunter, or Bradley, or McKinley, or even on Todd. While all of them are in one way or another responsible, to a certain extent, the principal responsibility rests with the voters who are tired of the whole gang.

Personally, we like these newly chosen officers and hereby extend to them that fellowship which has long made us one people and one nation. — Pantagraph.

Is it you want? If so you put a fly in the butter when you say: "By resorting to the usual high-handed methods, the Democrats were enabled to triumph."

Generally speaking the returns from thirty States besides New York will illustrate the great question as to the extent to which the natural and usual reaction after such a victory as that of 1896 has affected the politics of the present. — N. Y. Sun, day before the election.

The "great question" seems to have been sufficiently illuminated, especially in New York and Kentucky. Eh?

The New conspirators are engaged in a movement which, if not smashed, will send a Democrat to the United States Senate to succeed the late Mr. Murphy. If they succeed they will elect a Democratic Governor and a full set of Democratic State officers, and what then?

The "movement" was not smashed. The "conspirators" were not. In 1900, turned over New York State to the Democratic Presidential candidate. — N. Y. Sun, day before the election.

REPUBLICAN Candidate Bailey swung around the State crying "Where is Shackelford? He's afraid of me! He can't speak! I'll pay his expenses if he meet me!"

Now we hear that Mr. Bailey is dead broke and owes $500 borrowed money, while Shackelford has his nose, marries a wealthy girl to-day, and can laugh best as he laughs last; he will also eat chicken pie instead of crow. — The "movement" was not smashed.

It doesn't require of a good clerk to be a good speaker or a good runner either. Eh, Mr. Bailey?

FATHERLESS, motherless, born without sin, it came into the world and went right out again, did the Stanford Commercial, Republican.

The result of the election in Lincoln county as well as the entire absence of two papers at Stanford, doubtless decided its Ohio proscriptions to discontinue. Meanwhile the Interior Journal, like Tennyson's Brook, goes on forever. So be it, Selah!

READ and be wise. This is the editorial utterance of the Springfield, O., Review, a Republican paper published by and for the Negro.

"The negro was again loyal to the principles of the Republican party. Their vote was cast almost solidly for the party this time as it has been in the past. Without that vote even one-half of the party would not now be celebrating a victory, but waiting over a decided defeat."

What is true of Ohio is true of nearly every State in the Union. "That's what makes Democrats," remarked a Lexington Republican sorrowfully, as he viewed a procession of negroes celebrating Harrison's election in '88.

ONE year ago the Republican party said if the people of this great country of ours would elect McKinley President and a Republican Congress, they would be such an era of prosperity in this country as it had not witnessed in many years. By force, fraud, corruption and deceit McKinley and a Republican Congress were elected, and what has been the result?

The election last week everywhere answers the question. In the few instances where the Republicans were not overwhelmingly beaten, their former majorities were so reduced as to prove the disgust of the people and the great revision of feeling at the emptiness of Republicanism.

The Pantagraph's retraction is sufficient and satisfactory to the Courier-Journal. It is not to be wondered at that the party which favors the bury the hatchet necessity. That applies to personal journalism, in which it engaged. As to burying the political hatchet, we object. If that's the object of the meeting, we move to adjourn to the battlefield. There will be a Congressional election next year. A Governor the next and a President the next. To bury the hatchet can profit only that party which favors a still hunt. We propose to keep our hatchet sharp for the Republicans, as they are already cutting their own throats in Louisville.

MR. BRYAN said in his speech at Lebanon that when a man leaves the Democratic party he must leave the Democracy behind him! Likewise, the door of the Democratic party is always open for the return of profligate sons. Now is a good time for those who have wandered away to come in, but they must not insist on taking charge of the house to put those out who have stayed in. They must subscribe to the family tenets and submit to the family discipline and stand loyally by the Democratic house. Especially is this commended to the Courier-Journal and those newspapers which followed its lead.

THE Pantagraph prints a Syndicate letter every week from Washington. Besides being stuffed with commendation of McKinleyism, Dinglewism, Hennism and the like, it is neither up to date nor truthful, as the following leading paragraph last Friday, three days after the election, will show:

"With the gradual dying out of the free silver issue throughout the country, considerable interest is awakened as to what the leaders of the Democracy will choose as the basis of future principles upon which to go."

before the country and the voters of the United States.

To print such rot, free though it is, is an imposition upon intelligent people, misleading, cowardly dodging and false. The result of the election everywhere shows that.

THE Courier-Journal "Comes Back." See first page of CLIMAX; also see the Dispatch "comes back" at the Courier-Journal. Oh, yes, the Courier-Journal has come back. It comes back in every issue. It comes with a shot or a knife thrust every time; just as it did before the election. It refers all the time to Democrats as "silverites." It designates Democratic papers as "silver." It refers to Democracy as "silverism."

It will stab us in the headlines, stab us in the news, stab us in the editorials and stab the truth wherever the truth would help the Democratic party. Yes, it has come back, but we need it not. We have a champion now and every Democrat should buy no other Louisville daily paper. It is the Dispatch.

A SPECIAL to the Cincinnati Enquirer of November 6, says: Returns from 72 of the 119 counties of the state in regard to the vote on the constitutional amendment show a majority of 113 out of a total of 49,000 votes cast. The size of the vote shows that little interest was taken in the question, and that the voters outside of Louisville seemed to think it was some nefarious goliath scheme, and treated it accordingly.

Those interested in the adoption of the amendment are greatly disappointed that the interior towns, which would be directly benefited, seemed to think it a dangerous thing, and according to rolled up big majorities against it. The returns from the counties show some queer results.

AFTER the many soft-soapings which the gold Democrats received from the Pantagraph they very properly turned a deaf ear to the coquetish young thing and thereby spoiled what would otherwise have been a case of "The Spider and the Fly." Refusing to be caught in the net so adroitly laid, the gold Democrats are thus sized up by the disappointed Pantagraph:

"THE JOINTED SNAKE WELL ILLUSTRATES IT. We have been told that there is such a reptile as the jointed snake; that when struck it instantly flies to pieces, or to be more plain, unjoins itself. After the offender has passed on, believing he has crushed the reptile
